SHOW GIRL'S LOVE WORK WINGS WHEN ENDICOTT FAILED TO GET JOB

LEAVE SCARCE FUNDS

Harvard Man's Craving for Liquor Also Cause for Separation Suit

Love flew out the window when poverty and John Barley came in at the door of John Endicott, Harvard, '17, and lineal descendant of the Colonial Governor of the same name, whose beautiful blonde show girl wife is suing him for separate support. Judge Priest of the Suffolk Probate Court now has the case under advisement.

Harvard Man Endicott, erstwhile member of the "Follies of 1918" galaxy of beauties, blamed the two invaders for the blighting of his romance with the recently discharged actress, which began in 1916 and ended abruptly in the Hotel Harvard on Huntington avenue last January when, she testified, he left her for eleven days and with only enough money to go home to New York City.

COULD'NT GET JOB.
The descendant of the famous Colonial governor admitted that he was not as successful a job-getter as was his ancestor. Only one civilian job could he get since their marriage and this for a short time only on the New York Telegram. The first week as a space writer, he made $10.

The second week, $15.
Whereupon Endicott joined the ambulance section of the French aviation service, from which he was discharged in November, 1917. The next month he was taken over by the American army aviation, from which he was discharged last December. As an engine he received $171 a month.

His marriage, his nervous life lived with the family on Longwood avenue, Endicott's salary as the secretary and treasurer of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Company.

FONDNESS FOR LIQUOR.
Between his inability to support himself by a job and his fondness for liquor, married life became unbearable to the show girl, according to her testimony. Since leaving the service, however, the Harvard man had enough to get a job. For example, he tried the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Kidder, Peabody & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., Carter & Shugart, Whittier & Wells, and he added, "I've got every banking house in the city."

Endicott has a hope of a job, nevertheless, for a local branch of an auto firm has promised him the first vacancy.
But room and board, and clothes, said he, were furnished by his parents. His income was a few dollars a week, which came to him from a trust fund of $500 annually.

Endicott declared that he had not been drinking to an excess lately, but admitted being "under the influence" about a week ago. He said he had had two drinks on Friday, but declared he had got "the best" of liquor of $20,000 income.

His show girl wife tried hard to induce him to get employment, according to Endicott. She actually went with him on job-hunting expeditions and Endicott named the Guaranty Trust Company as one of the places to which she had accompanied him.

"The show girl herself testified that Endicott told her of a $25,000 yearly income before their marriage. Afterward, however, said she, apparently had no money with which to support her until he became an engine. Then, he turned the money over to her, for some when she needed it. She admitted receiving $15 a week from her husband from October till his discharge.

When they lived at the Harvard apartments, she declared that Endicott had some Scotch whiskey and that he traveled considerably in taxi cabs.
His disappearance left her very much down and out, she testified. Whereupon her counsel suggested "those conditions resulted from what."
"Atmosphere" was the snappy remark of the young blonde.
BORROWED $150 FROM PARENTS.
She testified under examination by Endicott's counsel that a blow on her finger had caused an abscess. For treatment she had paid a doctor $25 and for a time $15 a day for dressings. She had borrowed $150 from her parents to come to Boston and had not been paying them for board and wages during the last three months, she testified. She had more of a success than Endicott, by her admission of an income of $25 a week as a show girl.

Preceding the ceremony the cardinal spoke briefly, exhorting the children to stand firm for faith and country. Cardinal O'Connell, who administered the sacrament, was assisted by the Rev. W. B. Phelan, rector of the cathedral, and by the Rev. M. J. Scanlon. The children's class was under the direction of the sisters of the cathedral. The children were in charge of Rev. W. B. Conroy, director of the Sunday school.

RECORD PRICE FOR PLAY PAID BY MARY PICKFORD

Mary Pickford, film star, who has paid $40,000 for the movie rights to the play of "Daddy Long Legs," which she believes is worth every cent of the money.

In these days of catering to a jaded and tired public the palm must certainly be handed to Mary Pickford. When she saw "Daddy Long Legs" on the stage two years ago she made up her mind then and there she must secure the film rights of this remarkable play at any cost, and immediately entered into negotiations with Klaw & Erlanger for the film rights. The owners put a price of $40,000 on "Daddy Long Legs" and big operators as they are, they were stumped when little Mary Pickford took her checkbook out and made out the check, the face of which is shown above. On Monday, June 16, "Daddy Long Legs," with Everybody's Mary in the stellar role, opens at the Tremont Theatre, and Boston will see a screen performance that for artistic interpretation, beauty of production and a story of human interest stands in a class by itself.

PRESCRIPTION WAS WRITTEN 60 YEARS AGO

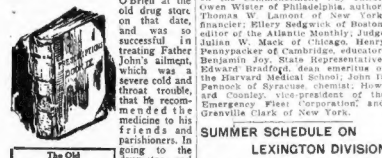

The True History of Father John's Medicine

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

The Old Drug Store

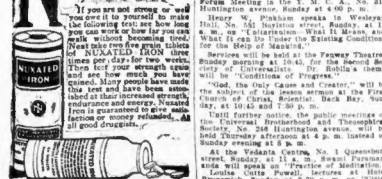

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855. On one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's ailment, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In going to the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.

The Old Prescription Book

Father John's Medicine is a safe family medicine for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform, and any other poisonous drugs, or alcohol, but is all pure, wholesome nourishment.

LUXATED IRON

If you are old and strong or weak and thin, you can get your iron back by using Luxated Iron. It is a pure, wholesome iron preparation that builds up the system and gives you the strength and vitality you need. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. All good druggists.

She was Fat

The shadow of a doubt is cast upon the fact that she was fat. She was a woman of great beauty, and her figure was the envy of all who saw it. She was a woman of great beauty, and her figure was the envy of all who saw it.

Its very uniqueness will hold you enthralled as it has held enthralled audiences of other cities; swept them from their seats in amazed delight by the sheer power, vividness and originality of its thrilling, mysterious story.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed in advance upon this mighty play and its stupendous story.
